When one follows a path in whatever faith they follow they often come to a point where there are many choices.

What to do about these Spam Stories?

Posted by: ROMANA in Untagged on May 7, 2010

You know, folks ,I'm all for free enterprise etc, but these guys with their simular spam stories are working my LAST nerve. If they want to advertise that's fine but do it legid with all the others and not in the forums.

Keeping a path does not mean you are always on the right of any situation. Sometimes you are on the write path not the right path.

Part IV.....The Swan Message

Posted by: ROMANA in Untagged on Feb 19, 2010

I am Swan, the white winged bird who glides easily and effortlessly in air or water. I am the questionless question, the gift of grace who sees what cannot be seen and knows what cannot be known. I come in the fourth and last phase. When the path is clear I will come.

Part III.....The Deer

Posted by: ROMANA in Untagged on Feb 13, 2010

In the third phase we enter the cocoon. The Deer comes with gentle compassion to help us gather strength and release what no longer serves us well as we explore our new paths and patterns. As vision grows we see both our dreams for the future and our nightmares from the past. It is the blessing of Deer medicine that carries us.

Windbringer Pt 17

Posted by: heroheidR in Untagged on Jan 30, 2010

I know, it's been a while since I posted anything and I'm sorry. There has been some change occurring in Life here at the 'winbringer ranch', and I've been trying to work through it... See I don't always have the answers, and sometimes when you 'pray' for something, it happens. Then you have to figure out how to deal with the fact that you've gotten just what you asked for and the insecurities that it brings up. Man, that can be a hard task. For this installment there isn't going to be a bunch of music videos. It seems like most checking this blog may not be getting the messages anyway. Instead I'm gonna share some of the teachings that have helped me get to some sort of peace and that have reminded me... If you aren't happy and want things to change, the current situation MUST come to an end so that you may get new things in your life.

MY THOUGHT OF THE DAY

Posted by: ROMANA in Untagged on Jan 14, 2010

I was going to begin by stating I've come to believe that nothing in life is without purpose. As the words scrolled through my mind, however, flashes of orphans and mangled victims of the recent earthquake in Haiti came into focus behind the forming sentence. Within that instant, my entire karmic life perspective turned on its head. What possible rationale is there behind the suffering of the innocent? Is that what we call &quot;hell'?

I almost feel, as though my borrowed idea that &quot;everything happens for a reason&quot; is one rooted in luxurious western culture, as I sit within my home, safe from the potential severity of nature, surrounded by tens of thousands of dollars worth of crap I don't actually need. Upon consideration, I think it is almost ignorant of me, who has not experienced the extremes of this world, to offer any sort of suggestion.

I definitely feel as though we are here to experience the happiness potentiated by a human form. It's my uneducated belief that we are eternal souls, having a human experience. But where does that leave those born into a world of violence, with no equality, and with no opportunity? For what reason have they been handed a situation wherein it's impossible to realize their true potential?
